

Variety's Family & Faith-Based Entertainment Summit, presented in association with Rogers & Cowan, was a "sold out" full day event that gathered over 300 media professionals to hear 40 high-profile speakers present and discuss topics exploring why family and faith-based entertainment is a critical genre for the film and TV industry.

GEORGE TAWEELFounder/CEO
George Taweel Productions

George Taweel, Founder & CEO of George Taweel Productions, was honored to participate in this "first of its kind" event. His panel spoke on "Film Finance for Family and Faith-Based Entertainment: Brands, Investment Angels, Family Content Advocates and More".

LOS ANGELES, CA - JUNE 21: Founder George Taweel Productions George Taweel (L) and producer & Founder MJM Entertainment Mark Joseph speak during the Family Entertainment and Faith-Based Summit produced by Variety in association with Rogers & Cowan held at Sofitel Hotel on June 21, 2012 in Los Angeles, California.

Taweel commented with both amusement and pride, "This Summit has finally validated our company's leadership in entering this marketplace 25 years ago with the ground-breaking live-action / animation series of mini-movies® entitled "McGee and Me!". So much for being an overnight success!"

More details about the Summit (including a list of other participants) can be found at www.variety.com/family&faith.

